Dr. Trilochan Singh On The Decline Of Sikhism

From my boyhood in the thirties up to 1945 I saw a generation of Sikh leaders, saints, mi never compromised with oppressive Rulers and anti-Sikh political parties. Political leader Sher-i-Punjab, Kartar Singh Jhabbar, and saints like Bhai Sahib Randhir Singh, Akali Kaur Gurbachan Singh Bhindran, Ragi Hira Singh, Bhai Vir Singh, Kalian Singh Nabha represent fields of activity. In the late forties and more so after the partition of the country in 1947, the faith remained exclusively in the hands of blind and deaf forces which heeded neither cries of warning that the present leadership is genuine heir to these great men of the thirties and forties, both parties always given unqualified support to Akali Dal and the S.G.P.C. as a Sikh Institution and Custodian never cared to notice the moral degradation and the spiritual decadence that has crept into the name of the Panth (Sikhs as a Nation) for any political cause, the farmers have left their plough to suffer imprisonment, torture and even death for the Sikh cause without ever seeking any reward. Sighted leaders did nothing beyond seeking comfortable ministerial posts and seats in the Parliament completely forgetting the people till the next election.

In the last thirty years these so-called Panthic leaders have willfully and callously killed something of the people, young and old. They have neglected talent, shunned and isolated genius, driven creativity destroyed Sikh studies and genuine missionary work, and converted paid missionaries of the State into propaganda for them. They are ambitious men lacking political education, social culture, and in withered hearts and souls, but always ripe for empty ambitions, and for vanity, its necessary as
